

NARRATIVE WRITING

WHAT IS A NARRATIVE?

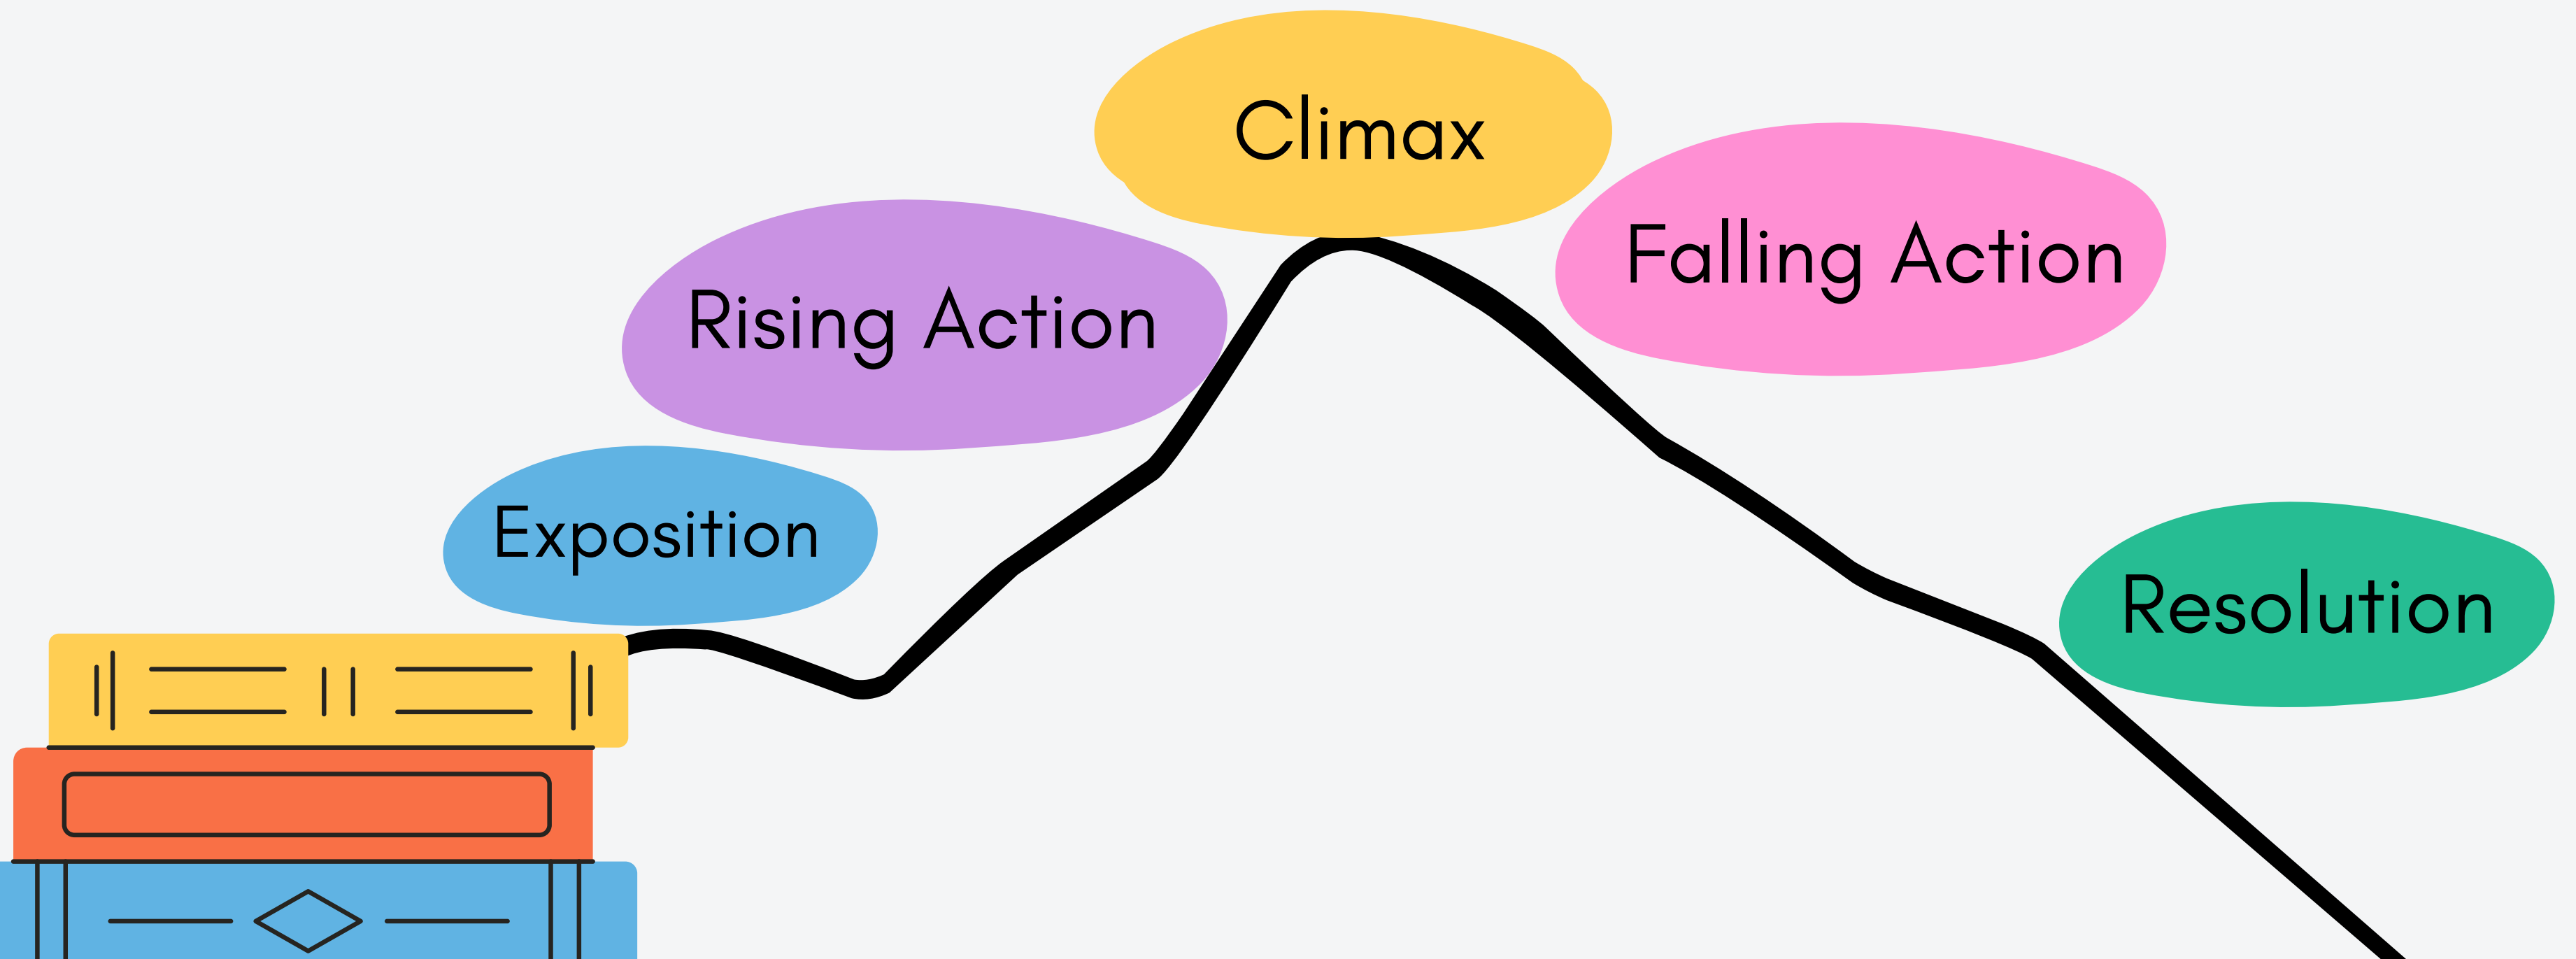

A narrative piece is a form of writing that tells a story through characters, events, and a clear sequence.

Its purpose is to engage the reader by showing a conflict and how it unfolds.

ORGANiZE EVENTS

Once your base is set, continue climbing the mountain:

WHAT IS RISING ACTION?

The rising action is the climb up the story mountain! This is where everything gets more interesting and leads to the big event. Often, tension and excitement grows. The reader will also learn more about the characters and their feelings.

WHAT IS THE CLIMAX?

This is the peak of the story mountain. This is where the main problem reaches the biggest, most critical point. Often, during this time, characters make big decisions, face a fear, or take action.

WHAT IS FALLING ACTION?

The falling action comes right after the climax, or most exciting part of the story. This is where the narrative begins to wind down. Problems are solved, and the main character might reflect on how they have grown.

WHAT IS THE RESOLUTION?

The resolution is when the story finishes and everything makes sense to the reader. This is the final part of the story, and the main problem is fully resolved. Readers see how the characters feel and have changed.
